SYNOPSIS

Because he handles so many of the community's problems, it's hard to remember that Pierre has his own. His home was damaged in the flood, and he's still waiting for an insurance payout (which may never come). He comes to the Director to ask for a hefty advance on his paycheck so he can cover the repair work and make ends meet. The Director has to decide how to handle Pierre's problem compassionately, but without compromising the Center's integrity.
