

WEB RESOURCES FOR *THE KALLIOPE PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

The following websites have all kinds of interesting information and fun activities connected to what you are learning in The Kalliope Performing Arts Center. To explore each site, first copy its web address into the address bar on your computer's browser. Then press the Return key on your key board, and you're at the site!

The Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts

The Kennedy Center is our national performing arts center. It puts on major performances of all kinds, some of which even the President of the United States attends! You can take an in-depth virtual tour of all the Center's major performing spaces and building features. It's definitely the next-best thing to experiencing the Kennedy Center in person.

http://www.kennedy-center.org/about/virtual\_tour

Broadway Database

This site is the place to go for Broadway theater buffs. You'll learn interesting facts about every production that ever played on Broadway, the world-famous theater district in New York City, from the earliest shows right through the current season.

<http://www.ibdb.com>

Young Dancers

You might be familiar with ballet, but what about capoeira? This is a website aimed at younger dancers, especially teens, at all levels of dance experience. It's full of quotes, games, trivia, photos, and exercises. Included information comes from all over the world.

<http://www.young-dancers.org>

Play Music

This site is chock full of material related to playing music. You'll get a tour and explanation of every section of an orchestra. You'll meet a young composer and a concert master. You'll hear from an instrument builder. In addition, you can find an orchestra or a music teacher near you. Best of all, you'll have an opportunity to compose your own music.

<http://www.playmusic.org>