

EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT STUDENT CHECKLIST

Evening

You're going to be writing a feature article, which is a pretty big deal for your first day on the job!

Don't worry—I'll guide you along the whole way, and then I'll pop in to make sure you covered all the big points before you submit your writing. Here's a checklist to keep you on track. You can check items off as you write.

Does the introduction of my feature article

- grab the attention of my readers?
- give an idea of what's to come in the body of the article?

Does the body of my feature article

- include all my important ideas?
- provide details that are useful and/or interesting to my readers?
- support facts with evidence from my reading in the "Emergency Management" section of the game?

Does the conclusion of my feature article

- summarize the main points I made in the article, or
- restate my central message, or
- leave my readers with an important on-topic new idea to think about?

